The Effects of Mass Incarceration: A Public Forum on Criminal Justice Sentencing Reform will be held on Sunday, April 6, 2 - 4 p.m. at Accotink Unitarian Universalist Church, 10125 Lakehaven Drive, Burke. The panelists include state Sen. Dave Marsden, the Sentencing Project’s Nazgol Ghandneosh, Fairfax’s Deputy County Executive David Rohrer. They will engage these concerns: the United States has more people in jail than any nation in the history of the world. Unintended consequences of this Mass Incarceration are especially devastating to poor communities of color. Young African-American Men are more likely to go to jail than to college. Many drug offenders are discriminated against in housing, voting and education after they have served their sentences. How do we minimize the human costs of the Drug War and Mass Incarceration and fix this crisis? Robinson students create yearbooks year after year.

Although they’ve faced multiple snow days this year, staff members of Above and Beyond, Robinson Secondary School’s high school yearbook, are well on their way to completing the 2014 edition.

“Snow has definitely been a huge challenge this year,” said Sarah Gaulke, an editor of the high school yearbook. The staff’s dedication and hard work are evident through their production schedule, which includes a great deal of class time and Saturday work sessions.

This year, the publications were recognized for their work. Above and Beyond, along with Robinson’s middle school yearbook, Sentry, were named finalists for the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA) Yearbook Pacemaker awards.

The contest, which received 368 entries, is judged by journalism educators and professionals.

Camille Sides, Gwendolyn Appar, and Annie Goetz were editors of the 2012-2013 edition of Robinson’s high school yearbook, recognized for the award. Mary Kate Feely and Sara Goetzinger were editors of Sentry, Robinson’s middle school yearbook.

“I was a little surprised, but we worked really hard,” said Sides. “I’m glad we were recognized,” said Anna Rozelsky, an editor for the high school publication.

Camille Sides, a senior who was editor of the yearbook last year as well as this year, said she was also an editor for the high school publication.

The class is more demanding than the typical elective, Hinman said. “At the beginning of the year, I always tell the kids: ‘We have 124 blank pages—it’s your job to fill them,’” she said.

Students in the class must be responsible and committed, as deadlines are important to ensuring the yearbook is published. In addition to yearbook, many of the students, including the editors, are in advanced classes and participate in sports.

“Yearbook is my main focus,” Sides said. Several editors, including Sides, said that having Hinman as the advisor has made the class enjoyable. “She is just so passionate about what she does,” Sides said.

“I’ve come out of my shell as editor. I didn’t see myself as a leader before,” said Sides.

Pat Hinman, who serves as advisor for the middle and high school yearbooks, calls her staff the “unsung heroes” of the school. “This is really a behind-the-scenes job,” Hinman said.

Del. Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41) speaks before a House Committee on the importance of new concussion legislation.

Helping Students Fully Recover

New concussion legislation goes before the governor for signature.

Del. Eileen Filler-Corn’s bill, HB 1096, which places language for “Return to Learn” protocol into the Virginia Board of Education’s concussion guidelines passed the House of Delegates and Senate unanimously this General Assembly Session. It will now go before the Governor for signature. Current guidelines spell out protocol for student athletes returning to the playing field, but do not include information for the students returning to the classroom.

A recent study from Children’s Hospital Boston looked at more than 300 student athletes who suffered concussions. They found those who did not take a break from school work took, on average, 100 days to recover. Those who cut back on homework and online activity recovered in 20 to 50 days. The researchers say this study adds to the evidence that concussion patients benefit from cognitive rest just as much as physical rest.

“Plain and simple, students who suffer a concussion need the proper time away from sports and the classroom in order to fully recover.”

— Del. Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41)

Del. Filler-Corn said, “Plain and simple, students who suffer a concussion need the proper time away from sports and the classroom in order to fully recover.”

“This idea can be extremely beneficial to ensure our students receive the proper care to return to class. It can also expedite the return to the classroom by noticing symptoms early and providing the necessary recovery time,” Filler-Corn said.

The new legislation will require school personnel to accommodate the gradual return to the classroom of a student suffering a concussion. The appropriate time away will be based on a recommendation of the student’s doctor, in consultation with school administrators.

Del. Filler-Corn worked with the Brain Injury Association of Virginia and the Virginia Association of Athletic Trainers on this bill and its passage saw wide bipartisan support.

Community Welcomes Homeless Into New Homes
FACETS TRIUMPH II Housing is part of the 100,000 homes campaign.

By Janelle Germanos
The Connection

As part of the 100,000 Homes Campaign, FACETS welcomed 18 previously chronically homeless individuals into housing on March 18 at a housewarming celebration.

“These are the days that I love, love, love my job because we get to celebrate welcoming home 18 people who have been homeless for many years and finally have housing. We are so excited about that,” said Amanda Andere, the executive director of FACETS.

100,000 Homes is a national movement to house 100,000 chronically homeless individuals. Last year during the 100,000 Homes Fairfax Registry Week, FACETS joined several other organizations in going out into the community and interviewing homeless people.

“I’m so proud today to say a year later, we didn’t just go out and talk to people and create a registry list, we created a plan, we took action. We had a goal of housing 30 of our most vulnerable in our community. With our partners in the room this day, we housed 45 people,” Andere said.

The 18 previously homeless individuals moved into housing this month by FACETS are now part of TRIUMPH II Housing, funded by a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant.

Organizations such as Gracing Spaces have helped to furnish apartments that are part of TRIUMPH II Housing.

“It just helps them get a first leg-up and a fresh start,” said Kathie Baumgart, director of Gracing Spaces.

Andere said that while programs like shelters are important, the community needs to focus on providing permanent housing for those who are homeless.

“If we want to make change in our community, we have to figure out how we are going to end homelessness and that is through moving people into housing,” she said.

Sandra Perry, 29, a FACETS client who just moved into TRIUMPH II housing, shared her story at the housewarming event.

Perry, who grew up in the Mount Vernon area, says her family had alcohol addictions, which led to Perry entering the foster care system.

“I pretty much had to find my own way. I am a product of an addict,” Perry said.

Although she has faced homelessness and used to sleep in the woods, Perry said she is making the best of her situation.

“Without the people in FACETS and the other organizations that are helping these people, honestly I wouldn’t be standing here right now,” she said. “People do appreciate everything you guys are doing. I’m very grateful.”

Perry welcomed 18 attendees of the housewarming event into her apartment, which was decorated and put together thanks to Gracing Spaces.

David Vernon also opened his new apartment up to visitors.

“I really like it here,” Vernon said.

Andere said FACETS is growing and moving in the right direction.

“Five years ago when I started at FACETS, we had just spent a year moving nine people into housing. And then we moved in 10. Just this last month, we moved in 18,” she said.

Of the almost 2,900 homeless people in Fairfax County, 14 percent are chronically homeless. As the 100,000 Homes Campaign moves forward, organizations like FACETS are working to house these chronically homeless individuals.

Connolly Kicks Off His 2014 Campaign

Don Beyer top vote getter at event’s eighth District Straw Poll.

Pledging to continue to fight on Capitol Hill for the values and rights of Northern Virginians, Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) kicked off his campaign for a fourth term in the U.S. House of Representatives Monday night before a packed house of supporters at his 20th annual St. Patrick’s Day Fete.

More than 1,000 supporters from Fairfax, Prince William, and across Northern Virginia defied the aftermath of the region’s latest snowfall, which dropped between 5 and 10 inches across Fairfax, to attend Northern Virginia’s largest annual Democratic gathering.

Introduced by Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova, Connolly praised the assembled Democrats, elected officials, and candidates for “transforming the political landscape of Virginia.” Connolly reaffirmed his commitment to a woman’s right to choose, access to health care, and equal protection under the law for all Americans. He also reiterated his support for federal workers and “ensuring that the right to vote is universal, early, easy, and for everyone.”

Many attendees cast their votes in a straw poll measuring support among the 11 Democrats seeking the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring Rep. Jim Moran as Virginia’s 8th District congressman. Don Beyer topped the field, followed by Charniele Herring, Lavern Chatman, and Adam Ebbin.

Beyer, the former lieutenant governor and Ambassador to Switzerland, garnered 34 percent of the vote from the assembled Democrats for the 8th Congressional District nomination followed by Herring, a Virginia delegate and former state Democratic Party chair with 13 percent, Chatman, the former NoVA Urban League president with 12 percent, and Ebbin, a state senator, with 11 percent.

Alexandria Mayor Bill Euille and Virginia Delegates Patrick Hope and Alfonso Lopez each received 7 percent of the votes cast, while talk show host and lawyer Mark Levine got 6 percent. Candidates Satish Korpe, Bruce Shuttleworth, Nancy Najarian, and Derek Hyra each received 1 percent or less.

Connolly was joined on stage by Virginia Attorney General Mark Herring, Fairfax County supervisors, state senators and delegates, and many other elected officials and candidates from across Northern Virginia.
Celebrating Inclusion

By Supervisor John C. Cook (R-Braddock District)

The Board of Supervisors has designated March “Intellec tual and Developmental Disabilities Inclusion Month” in Fairfax County. Both those with disabilities and those without have their lives enriched when people with disabilities are fully included in the community. This special month seeks to help those with disabilities find ways to be involved in the community, and bring awareness to others of these engaged neighbors.

On March 29, a special movement of inclusion will take place. In Fairfax County and in communities across the country, people with intellectual and developmental disabilities will spend time doing things they love out in the community. The ARC, an organization here in Braddock that also serves others with intellectual and developmental disabilities do after high school graduation? The club focuses on offering life-skills and vocation skill development as the club members learn to become self-advocates. Demand for these services is so high that the club has a waiting list of individuals that would like to join.

In addition to the great resources available through the ARC of Northern Virginia and SPARC, Fairfax County offers opportunities for community involvement for individuals with disabilities. The County assists these community members through increased transportation, training, community advocacy, and more. The John Hudson Internship Program is a great example. This paid internship program in Fairfax County Government is for college students and recent graduates with disabilities, and is accepting applications through April 13. All of these organizations seek to empower individuals as they move toward a more independent life. Whether or not intellectual or developmental disabilities directly affect your family, this is a community issue that affects all of us. I am confident through these initiatives and more we can move forward to improve lives, so let’s continue the discussion here in Fairfax County about how we can take steps to make our area more inclusive. We should use this celebration as an opportunity to strive for an inviting and engaging community.

For more information on The ARC of Northern Virginia please visit www.thearcofnova.org. For more information on SPARC please visit www.sparcsolutions.org. For information about resources available for those with disabilities in our area, please visit the Fairfax County Long Term Care Coordinating Council website at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/lttcc/.
system of government to work. This is why during Sunshine Week we commend the Fairfax County Office of Elections for sharing important voting results and information with the residents of Fairfax County, detailing exactly how their votes in these important elections were counted and protected.

Not Cute at All

To the Editor:

There you go again, Mary, spotting that “free” federal money (“Voting against Virginia?” – Connection, March 12-18, 2014). Don’t you realize that many, if not most, of your readers see through your flowery attempts to sell an imaginary utopia? I mean, it used to be cute to read your “pie in the sky” collectivist fantasies when one could assume that your “intentions were good.” But that same old intellectually deficient, emotional appeal doesn’t manage to pass the sniff test anymore. It isn’t cute at all, but rather sad; for those that unknowingly read your predictable, shortsighted and poorly vetted “opinion” with the hope that there is a feasible, sustainable solution to be found in there somewhere. But also rather insulting; that you do not realize that most of your readers are not so gullible. At least the Connection is “free;” even if federal money isn’t.

Brent Emory Vienna

Saying ‘No’ With No Alternative

To the Editor:

Thank you for your considerate opinion that a vote against Medicaid expansion is a vote against Virginia. This opinion unfortunately gets little attention in the debate.

Those opposed to health care for the working poor in Virginia also opposed an increase in the minimum wage, which has not been increased at the Federal level since 2009.

And there is no logic to their reasoning why they oppose an expansion in health care coverage for as many as 400,000 Virginians. Nor do they offer an acceptable alternative.

Bruce Neilson Fairfax

Expand Medicaid in Virginia

To the Editor:

Do you know someone who works but cannot afford health insurance? I do. My hairdresser supports an adult son who cannot work because of a physical condition, and her four-year-old granddaughter. She simply does not have the money to buy insurance even under the Affordable Care Act. And she is not alone. In Virginia, 70 percent of the uninsured come from families where at least one person is employed.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, the uninsured are more likely to use the Emergency Room because they do not have a family doctor. Hoping their symptoms will go away, they often delay getting medical help until their condition is serious and more expensive to treat. Those of us who can afford insurance bear the cost of the uninsured (working folks, pregnant women and children) in several ways. The General Assembly usually appropriates $100M from the General Fund (our tax revenues) for indigent care at state teaching hospitals. Hundreds of millions more are lost by private hospitals when they don’t get paid by the uninsured. Those of us who do have insurance pick up these costs in higher premiums.

Virginia is the eighth wealthiest state, yet it is 46th in Medicaid expenditure. If Virginia accepts Washington’s help to make more people eligible for Medicaid, the federal government will pay 100 percent of the cost through 2016 and 90 percent thereafter. And if sometime in the future, the federal government reduces its contribution to Medicaid, Virginia can modify its program. The state budget already includes language that compels the Department of Medical Assistance Services to disenroll the expansion population if the federal match rate falls below current levels.

Children of Eden at the Burke Stage

Burke youth wow community audiences at the Burke Presbyterian Church.

Senior and junior high school youth from Burke Presbyterian Church presented the musical Children of Eden in four performances on March 13-16. The free events were open to the community. The Garden of Eden, Noah’s Ark, and other stories of the Old Testament were brought to life on the stage.

The cast and crew comprised students from Robinson and Lake Braddock Secondary Schools, West Springfield High School, Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology, Immanuel Christian School, Irving Middle School, Herndon Middle School, Canterbury Woods Elementary School and Keene Mill Elementary School. Director was Charlie Brady of Burke, who himself is an alumnus of musical productions at BPC.

“It was a great joy to watch our incredibly talented youth bring this show to life,” said Linda Kurtz of Burke, stage manager for the production. “Each performance seemed better than the one before it, and I was proud of the cast and crew for giving these important Biblical stories their all.”

The show features music and lyrics by Broadway award winning composer Stephen Schwartz. The story is based on the story of Genesis and is a heartfelt and often humorous examination of the age-old conflict between parents and children. Adam, Eve, Noah and the “Father” who created them deal with the headstrong, cataclysmic actions of their respective children. The show ultimately delivers a bittersweet but inspiring message: “the hardest part of love... is letting go.”

Lake Braddock Baseball
Looking for Missing Pieces

Bruins graduated five Division I players from last season.

By Jon Roetman
The Connection

The Lake Braddock baseball team entered the 2013 season in a cloud of uncertainty, with several key athletes battling injuries. The Bruins managed to right the ship, however, winning the Northern Region championship and reaching the state semifinals.

One year later, the Bruins again face a sense of uncertainty. This time, graduation, not injury, is the culprit.

Lake Braddock, a perennial Northern Virginia powerhouse, enters the 2014 campaign having graduated five Division I players from last year’s team. Gone are pitcher Thomas Rogers (North Carolina), outfielder Alex Gransback (VCU), catcher Garett Driscoll (George Mason), and infielders Alex Lewis (Longwood) and Mitch Spille (Radford).

Pitcher Nick McIntyre went to Division III Mary Washington. The Bruins return a solid group of talented athletes, but the team has more holes to fill than usual.

“We’ve got a talented core back, it’s just at the level we’re used to playing, it’s going to take nine guys and we’re trying to figure out who our best nine are right now and where they fit in and where they’re going to play,” head coach Jody Rutherford said. “In the past three or four years, we needed to find one, two, three pieces. This year, we’re looking at five pieces that we need to find.”

SENIOR SHORTSTOP
Jack Owens, who will play collegiately at East Carolina, is Lake Braddock’s top returning player. Owens is working his way back from an injury to his right wrist, but said he should be fine.

“What we lost were all around baseball players — hitters and pitchers,” Owens said. “Trying to fill their positions is something we can’t do, but we can find other ways to win. We’ll always find ways to win. If it’s not hitting home runs and hitting doubles, it will be bunting and dribbling balls between infielders.”

Junior infielders Nick Neville and Evenschenburg, and seniors Ryan Henderson (outfield) and Joe Darcy (pitcher/outfield) will provide Lake Braddock with strength at the top and in the middle of the batting order.

“Our top of the order is pretty good,” Rutherford said. “It’s just as good as it has been the past couple years. It’s all about finding who is going to produce at the bottom of the order. That’s what separates your offense from other [teams].”

Rutherford said senior Ian Reilly and junior Matt Supko have a chance to be contributors in the Bruin lineup.

Joe Darcy enters the 2014 season as the ace of the Lake Braddock pitching staff.

On the mound, Darcy, a 6-foot-2, 200-pound right-hander, transitions into the role of staff ace. Darcy gained experience as a starting pitcher last season and has “established himself as the go-to guy right now,” Rutherford said.

“Offensively, we’re just as good as any other year,” Darcy said. “The only area that we lack, really, is pitching, which, we’re all trying to step up and be better pitchers and help our team win.”

Rutherford said injuries will keep Supko (elbow/surgery) and junior Colby Wallmow (torn labrum) off the mound this season. In need of depth, Neville will pitch for the first time in several years.

Lake Braddock junior Nick Neville will move up in the batting order this season and pitch for the first time in years.

Lake Braddock will open the season at home against Flint Hill at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 20. The Bruins will host Oakton in a rematch of last season’s Northern Region championship game at 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 22.

“We’ll find a way to get it done; we’ll have to do a better job of coaching,” Rutherford said. “It’s easy when you have good players to sit back and take all the credit as a coach. I guess I’ve got to really actually do some work this year.”

— Lake Braddock baseball coach Jody Rutherford

Going to Oakton
For All-Star Game

Edison head coach Dianne Lewis will lead the East team, including Amy Berglund (West Springfield), Amber Bryson (Lee) and Tatiana Torres (Edison).

The 10th Suburban Classic girls’ basketball all-star game will be held on Sunday, March 23 at Oakton High School.

The game features some of the top seniors from the 6A North and 5A North regions. There is a 3-point shootout at 2 p.m., followed by the main event at 3 p.m.

The East team, led by Edison head coach Dianne Lewis, includes West Springfield standout Amy Berglund, who led the Spartans to a 25-3 record, a Conference 7 championship and a trip to the state tournament.

The rest of the East roster includes: Amber Bryson (Lee), Tatiana Torres (Edison), Michele Noel (Wakefield), Cami Prock (McLean), Tykera Carter (T.C. Williams), Angie Schedler (T.C. Williams), Samantha Porter (Mount Vernon) and DJ Jean Pierre (Mount Vernon).

The West team is led by Madison head coach Kirsten Stone. The roster includes: Abby Rendle (South Lakes), Caitlin Jensen (South Lakes), Jenna Green (Centreville), Katie Blumer (Centreville), Bailey Dufrene (Osbourn), Arinelle Collins (Freedom-South Riding), Katie Kerrigan (Madison), Kayla Hix (Stonewall Jackson), Nicole Zubovich (Freedom-South Riding) and Alexia Johnson (Broad Run).

Admission is $5, with senior citizens and children younger than 5 admitted for free. Proceeds help to fund the Northern Virginia Women’s Basketball Coaches Association scholarship program.

Schools

FCPS Students Earn 27 National Scholastic Awards

Fairfax County Public Schools students earned 27 national awards in the National Scholastic Art Awards program sponsored by the Alliance for Young Artists and Writers. Nima Jeizan of Marshall High School earned an American Visions Medal—equivalent to a best in show for the nation—and Elisabeth Hughes of Oakton High School earned a Gold Medal and Best in Grade Award.

Gold Key award-winning entries from the Fairfax region were judged at the national level against winning artwork from across the country where they earned Gold Medals, Silver Medals, American Visions Medals, and Best in Grade Awards. National medalists will be celebrated at an award ceremony at Carnegie Hall in New York City in May. Select national award winning work will be included in an exhibition in New York, and a traveling exhibition over the coming year.

FCPS winners from our area include:
- Ha Nuel Lee of South County High School, Gold Medal for Digital Art, “She Is Ready.”
- Ji Whae Choi of Thomas Jefferson High School of Science and Technology (TJHSST), Silver Medal for Art Portfolio, “Diversity.”
- Soyoung Ha of Fairfax High School, Silver Medal for Painting, “Child’s Nightmare.”
- Junyoung Hwang of TJHSST, Silver Medal for Painting, “Reflection.”
- Jean Kim of South County High School, Silver Medal for Drawing, “Blue Horse.”
- Jessica Kim of Westfield High School, Silver Medal for Digital Art, “Bat Girl.”
- Ha Nuel Lee of South County High School, Silver Medal for Art Portfolio, “When He Gives Her The Flower Shoes.”
- William Sullivan of South County High School, Silver Medal for Art Portfolio, “Sexualization Of The Virgin.”
- Jahyun Yang of Woodland High School, Silver Medal for Art Portfolio, “Front Door Neighbors.”
